

TURN UP THE VOLUME! ON STUDENT VOICE

Feb. 23 & 25 and March 2 & 4 | Online

The principal leadership journey typically starts with what we call the Principal Action Paradigm: tactfully and intentionally leading Culture, Systems, and Learning. A new principal begins by tackling the school's climate and culture. While culture work is never-ending, it's where principals in their first few years should typically invest the majority of their energy. As they masterfully create a common vision, purpose and culture, school leaders also begin pushing on some of the systems and learning that have been in place—in some cases—for decades.

Where does student voice fit into the paradigm? Everywhere! Join AWSP and AWSL for this four-part virtual series that will help you turn up the volume on student voice in your school as you bring culture, systems, and learning together in the spirit of what's best for kids.
